This publication is not intended for use as a source of legal, business, accounting or financial advice. All readers are advised to seek services of competent professionals in legal, business, accounting, and finance fields.

In this lesson, I want to show you how to use answer websites. For example, Yahoo Answers and Answers.com. These are really good websites for getting traffic and more importantly, finding out what your niche market is interested in. If you spend some time on these sites, it is going to help you with product creation. It is going to help you with your content for article and blog creation.

You can find out what questions people in your niche have. You can also answer them because you will be someone who is well researched in your niche market. You can answer a question someone has and add a link back to your article or other content that provides them with information. Let me give you an example with golf as the example. You can type in golf slice and find what questions people are asking.

If you want to answer a question, add your answer in the given section.

you can see where you are going wrong.

Best of luck,

Pete

You can pull some content from one of your articles. Copy the content and then paste it into the box. If you don't have content about it, you can write one. You will need to add a source, and you can then link it right back to your actual content.

"Golf Grip - this is one of the most fundamental reasons why golfer's slice the ball, if you golf grip is too weak, i.e. where the hands are rotated too far on the grip in an anti-clockwise direction at address, the likelihood is that during the motion of your swing your hands will correct themselves and adopt a more neutral position.

This causes the club face to be open at impact. Try making this adjustment at setup, by rotating your hands clockwise, so they adopt a more neutral position, this will ensure that you keep the club face square throughout the entire swing."

People can take a look at what you shared, and it will encourage them to click on that link to read all of the content. You should set up a profile within Yahoo Answers. It is a straight forward process. Then you can go to the various niches and you can type in keywords to find what those in your niche market are asking about.

You can share personal tips as part of the content. Make sure you share your resources for the content. There are multiple ways to use these types of websites. You will need to have a Yahoo account set up to use Yahoo Answers. You can do a combination of things – answer a few questions each day that you can answer in your niche.

There are plenty of them. This will help to build up your score on Yahoo Answers. It will improve your traffic and you will find that this tool tells you what your market wants. That translates into content ideas for your sources of content.

That is why answer sites are very valuable for you. It is also possible to do a Google search for Answer Websites or Question and Answer Websites.

The screenshot shows a Google search interface with the query "question and answer websites like yahoo answers" entered in the search bar. The search results are displayed under the "Web" tab. The first result is titled "Are there other sites like yahoo answers where I can ask q..." and includes a snippet from answers.yahoo.com. The second result is titled "Are there any other websites like Yahoo Answers?" and shows a list of four questions with their respective answer counts and dates. The third result is titled "Are there other web sites like this one? - Yahoo Answers" and includes a snippet from answers.yahoo.com. The fourth result is titled "Yahoo Answers Similar Sites | 50 Websites Like Answers...." and includes a snippet from www.similarsitesearch.com.

Another big one to consider is <http://www.answers.com/>. Those are the two really big ones that you can use to leverage what your marketplace is looking for.

The screenshot shows the Answers.com homepage. At the top is a search bar with the text "Ask us anything" and a "GO" button. Below the search bar is a navigation menu with categories: ENTERTAINMENT, TECH, LIFESTYLE, FOOD, HEALTH, POLITICS, MONEY, SPORTS, INTERVIEWS, and ALL SECTIONS. There are also social media icons for Facebook, Twitter, and Google+, and a link to "ANSWERS CLOUD SERVICES".

On the left side, there is a "Home" section with a list of links: New questions, Recent site activity, Browse categories (with a dropdown arrow), Animal Life, Business & Finance, Cars & Vehicles, Entertainment & Arts, Food & Cooking, Health, History, Politics & Society, Hobbies & Collectibles, Home & Garden, Humor & Amusement, Jobs & Education, Law & Legal Issues, Literature & Language, Miscellaneous, Relationships, Religion & Spirituality, Science, Shopping, Sports, and Technology.

The main content area features a question by Jim Mowreader, who has 15,116 contributions. His bio states: "I am an Army veteran who has worked in the graphic arts, photography, transportation and retail industries." The question is "Why does a company go for an IPO?" and is answered in the "IPOS" category. The answer explains that an IPO stands for Initial Public Offering and is the process in which a large company issues shares to the general public for the first time to raise cash and capital. It also mentions that 15 people found this useful.

On the right side, there is a section titled "Experts you should follow" with four experts listed: Maria Menounos (Health Author and TV Host for E! Entertainment), Gerald Clay (60+ years experience in auto repair, Built and raced a car for 2 years on the drag racing circuit), Chris Irwin (Host of "Cancer Nation Radio" and creator of CancerCoachChris.com), and Miryam Doblas (Clinical Dietician and founder of Eat Good 4 Life Blog). Each expert has a "FOLLOW" button.

Below this, there is a section titled "Categories you should follow" with two categories listed: Jobs & Education and Literature & Language, each with a "FOLLOW" button.
