

No Cost Income Stream Blueprint

Part 37: Freelancing - Forums

LEGAL NOTICE: The Publishers have strived to be as accurate and complete as possible in the creation of this report, notwithstanding the fact that they do not warrant or represent at any time that the contents within are accurate due to the rapidly changing nature of the Internet.

While all attempts have been made to verify information provided in this publication, the Publisher assumes no responsibility for errors, omissions, or contrary interpretation of the subject matter herein. Any perceived slights of specific persons, peoples, or organizations are unintentional.

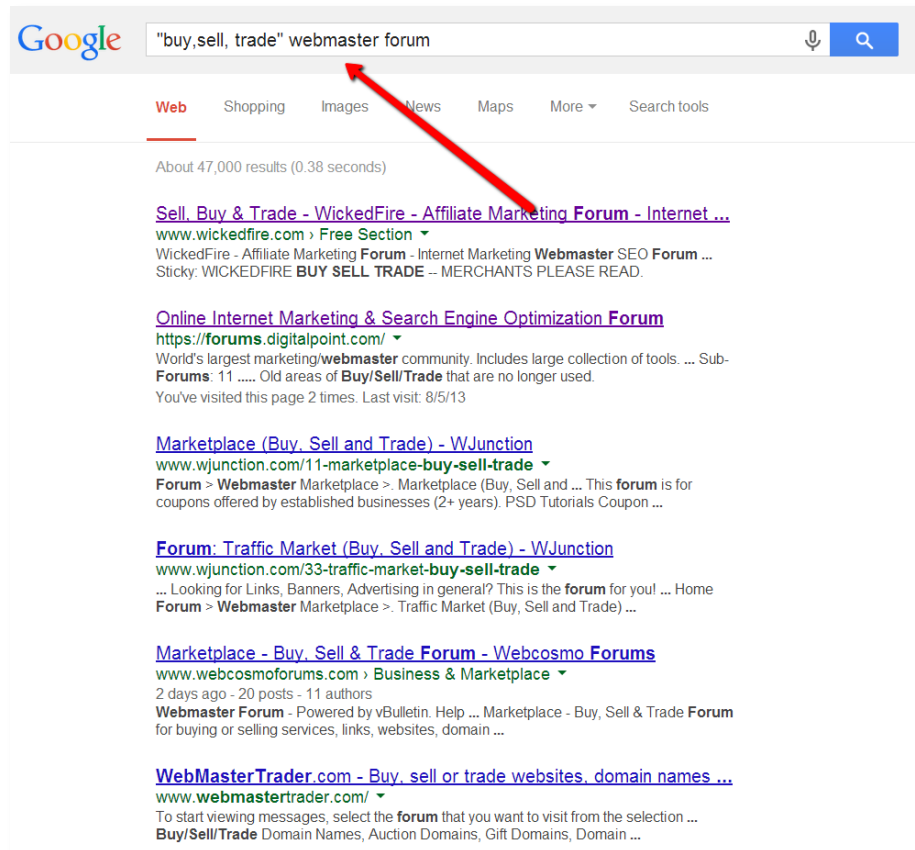

In practical advice books, like anything else in life, there are no guarantees of income made or any other specific results. Readers are cautioned to rely on their own judgment about their individual circumstances to act accordingly.

This publication is not intended for use as a source of legal, business, accounting or financial advice. All readers are advised to seek services of competent professionals in legal, business, accounting, and finance fields.

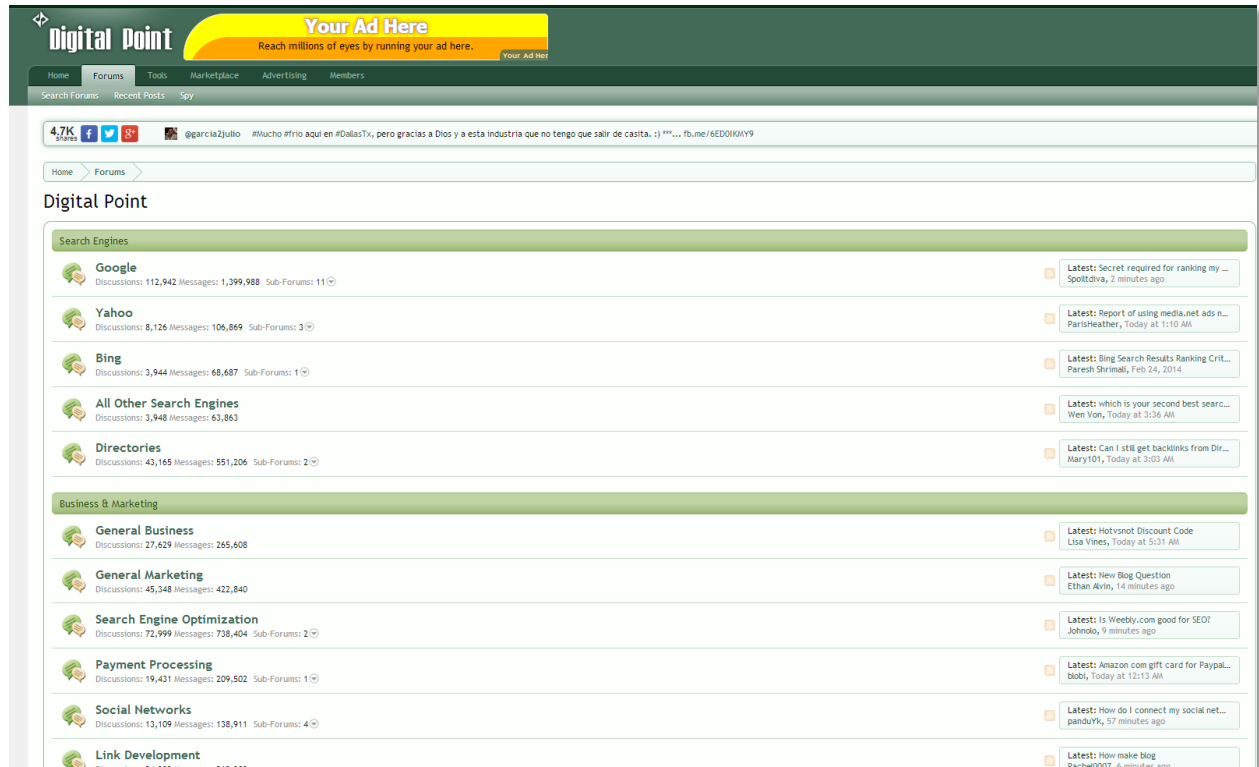

This is part #5 of the No Cost Freelancing. In this one, we will be talking about how to leverage forums with your freelancing. Forums are just one more way that you can find freelance work. We have already talked about micro job sites and micro gig sites. We talked about freelance sites and even getting your own website. We have covered a multitude of ways to find freelance work.

Forums are one more way to get even more jobs that are out there. High traffic sites with webmasters seeking services are an ideal place to go. Again, high traffic means there is lots of volume and potential work that needs to be done. These forums will have the work you are looking for. They need content, installations, etc. You name it, they will need it.

Conduct a Google search for webmaster forums. In quotation marks enter “buy, sell, trade” webmaster forum. That will bring up only webmaster forums that have these exact words in them.

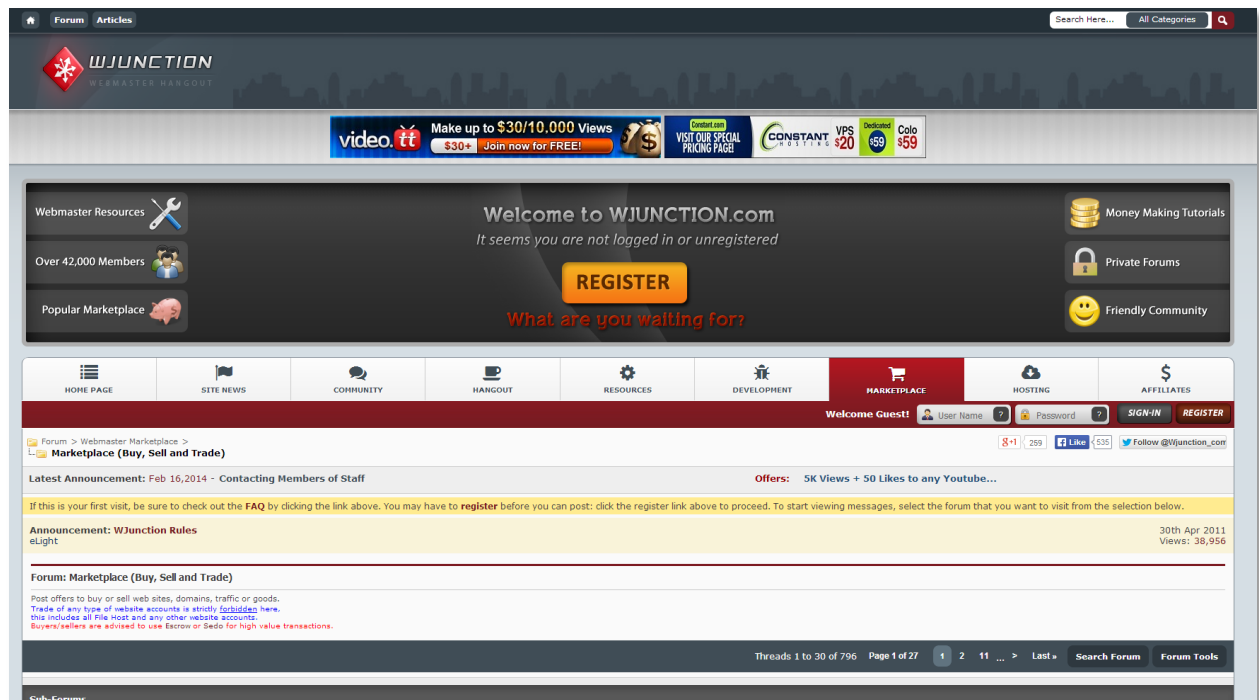

A really popular one with a good buy, sell, trade section is www.forums.digitalpoint.com. It has been around for a while.

Inside the buy, sell, trade forum, there are all types of things. There are design contests that take place. You can submit and throw yourself in the ring so to speak. There are services you can offer including writing and graphics. You can go through them and show what types of services you can offer. See if there are projects you can bid on. Submit your own work as well.

Another popular one is www.wjunction.com. It is a great buy, sell, trade forum where you will find opportunities. There are lots of postings for services here.

For example, a web hosting site. There is a posting for buying a description writer. This is someone to write descriptions for various projects. No one had replied on it yet, and you could become the first one to reply on this job offer.

This type of work doesn't take much effort. You can go through and look for what people are buying and see what you can offer. You can sell your own services on here as well. There are so many sites that will come up when you do that Google search we mentioned. The most popular one is the www.warriorforum.com. They have a special section for those posting services and one for those looking to hire.
