

No Cost Freelancing

Part 2: Freelancing Websites

No Cost Freelancing – Freelancing Websites

- Freelancing websites and job boards offer a great chance to find jobs.
- They are high traffic sites that connect freelancers with clients.
- Most of the largest freelancing sites are free to get an account.
- You fill out your profile and bid on jobs.
- Some sites let you post your service for clients to find.
- Quickest way to find jobs you can start bidding on.

We all know a "hotshot" who couldn't make it in the publishing world because he was unorthodox and preferred to work outside the cage. I am that guy. My permanently crooked fingers and faded palm rests on my MacBook are testament to my addiction to writing. I spent the late '90s and early aughts writing the print equivalent of squeeze pages, advertisements and product reviews for magazines and newspapers with circulation in millions. But the last four years of my life have been tremendous. I got a chance to rub shoulders with the giants in digital marketing space and work for behemoths such as Amazon, Microsoft, and industry-leading companies like CBS. Having retired to a life of freelancing, I now spend my time juggling a bunch of writing and digital marketing projects for a select few clients. As a grammar-school-educated Birmingham boy, I am very emotional about my work and craft. My natural writing style is witty and blunt, but when the mood strikes, prose becomes po ...
